A BIG MAJORITY.

Vermont is a sure republican state. It will cast a majority of from fifteen to thirty thousand at the September election, just in proportion to the interest that is taken in political matters at that time. If local, county or state candidates and contests are sharp, and if the people vote to show their continued faith in republicanism, then there will be a large vote. If republicans let the election go of its own accord, then the vote will be light and the majority reduced.

But there are the best of reasons why republicans should turn out at this time. So far as the state ticket is concerned it must commend itself to the voters of the state. In county politics in the counties where this journal circulates the republican nominations are good, and there need be no objections to them. The county tickets in themselves ought to call out a large vote.

More important, however, is the fact that the majority in this state is stated as an index of public sentiment, formulated in a region as free as any from unjust and foul political influences. If the republican majority, from any cause is small, it will be regarded by the democratic press as indicative that republicans are lukewarm in sentiment. If the majority is large it will be taken as a sign that the republican star which never sets true to her poise and her place in the bright north sky. Republicans hardly realize how much their vote is worth at this time. Every man, on general principles, should attend the September election. For special reasons he should show his colors and his enthusiasm on this important occasion. The democrats will be out; it is among their list of virtues to be faithful to the polls. They are sure to get here. Another thing that will naturally cut down the vote this year is the new ballot law. While it will be so explained to voters as to make it fair and easy to understand, some will fail to understand it and will vote so as to destroy their whole ballot, or to have their votes counted where they did not intend they should be counted. Come to the polls early and get a full knowledge of the manner of voting and vote as your freeman's oath. There is no great politics in local matters, but there is a vast deal of it in state and national concerns.

NO SUMPTUARY LAWS.

It may have escaped the attention of some republicans in Vermont that among the "planks" of the national democratic platform, and in the democratic state platform, and also in the county democratic platform of this state, is that significant thing which reads like this: "We are opposed to all sumptuary laws." Now there is not the least difficulty in fully understanding what the word "sumptuary" means in democratic circles. The word "sumptuary" in its dictionary significance means something to restrain in the matter of food, drink, etc. Hence in no license states where the prohibitory laws are intended to restrain liquor drinking, the democratic platform is opposed to such laws and regulations; in Vermont the platform means to commit the democratic party as a whole to the no sumptuary notion; to put the party as a party in opposition to prohibitory law. Democratic party leaders understand this. Our observation in state politics has been that while a large share of the rank and file of the party is friendly to the prohibitory law, and will help enforce it, the politicians of the party oppose the law. We need only to call attention to such leading names as Atkins, Smalley, J. W. Currier, Moloney, Davenport, etc. Democrats and republicans will call to mind hundreds of others—in fact, whole scores of the politicians of the party, who stand where Atkins and his crowd stand. There is no hope for or in those of the Atkins stamp: but why in the light of a temperance sentiment and a desire for public good, that a large number of the better class of democrats will affiliate with and labor for the other set, is a mystery we can not solve. It is our pleasure and privilege to associate with and to know a large class of honorable democrats who are all right in temperance matters, but who are liable when election comes to vote for a set of candidates who would repeal the prohibitory (sumptuary) laws of this state. Think it over, democrats, and see if you really want to vote with that crowd.

Republicans will not very naturally go that way. Everybody knows that the rum element in both parties is on the alert every year to put high license, non-sumptuary men into the Vermont legislature. They will be on their muscle this year. Temperance men should see well to their representatives.

Would you ride on a railroad that uses no danger signals? That cough is a signal of danger. The safest cure is Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. Sold by all dealers on a guarantee of satisfaction.

CHRISTIANITY AND THE REPUBLIC.

The eloquent addresses recently delivered in the Senate and House of Representatives at Washington in favor of Sunday closing at the World's Columbian Exposition cannot fail to command admiration. Every utterance upon this subject was in harmony with a late decision of the United States Supreme Court, whereby it is to be forever regarded as a settled principle that this is a Christian nation.

We do well to estimate the blessings that flow continually from the Christian elements which were incorporated in our organic national life. Think of our American Sabbath—its restraints upon human passion; of its influence in promoting intelligence, social order and virtue. Think of the manifold exhibitions of public sympathy and benevolence between man and man in our broad land, all of which are the mutual products of Sabbath principles. When we weigh, with due consideration, this subject, sentiments of Christian patriotism ought to burn in every American heart.

What a heritage we enjoy! Centuries ago the race besought God for more enlarged limits. He planted an inspiration in the soul of Christopher Columbus, who, bounding over the trackless deep, sought the New World. The cry of humanity was still for enlargement, and God sent forward a royal company in the Mayflower to plant a Christian civilization on this continent. Again the cry for help went up to Him, and in 1776 He gave to our patriotic forefathers the charter of inalienable rights. In 1860 again He listened, and at His bidding those chains, which the framers of our Constitution hoped would gradually melt away, were shivered to atoms amid the shock of battle.

Let no feeble arm dare to arrest the onward march of Christian truth. Let no American patriot dare to poison those currents of religious thought that have been flowing through our national life from the beginning.

We owe it to ourselves and to posterity to strengthen the great Christian agencies of our country. Our hope is in our churches, our Sunday schools, our Christian Endeavor societies and our Christian seats of learning. Let us seek their preservation, purity and universal prevalence. Let us train the rising generation in these principles. These are the chief grounds of national prosperity, and are in accordance with wise political policy—that policy which is pleasing to the Supreme Ruler of the nation, and which is, therefore, in accordance with true statesmanship.—News and Express.

I have had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical, it allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

THE ALABAMA ELECTION.

Alabama is a doubtful state in the November election, with the chances favoring the defeat of the Cleveland ticket. Of that result no doubt would be possible were not the democratic capacity for fraud so enormous. It is an ignorant argument that the democrats of the North are addressing to the white voters of Alabama when they warn them against the so-called Republican Force bill. There are a hundred thousand white democrats in Alabama to-day who are crying for the want of the very measure in the fear of which northern democrats are absurdly declaring that all Alabama will be united on November 8.

These white voters, while bound together in opposition to the regular democratic candidate for governor, have, until within the last few days, steadily called themselves democrats. They have been engaged in a fight against ring dictation, and they went to the polls in triumphant numbers. The proof is overwhelming that they elected their candidate, and that the regular democracy was buried under a majority of from 20,000 to 30,000 votes. But the majority which came out of the ballot-boxes was for the regular democratic candidate. The same methods of force, intimidation, ballot-box stealing, ballot-box stuffing and false counting that are everywhere resorted to in the South to beat the republican party were last week adopted in Alabama to overthrow the triumphant faction of independent democrats. Federal interference in state elections is not wanted in Alabama any more than elsewhere. Nor is the outcry about it any more or less absurd, but after the events of last week there is no issue in that state so intense and all-pervading as the issue of a fair ballot and a fair count. Tribune.

THE CALAMITY CRAZE.

The calamity craze sprang into existence as the result of poor crops. It was most prevalent in the Western and Northwestern states. The farmers in these localities were poor men who were struggling to make for themselves and families homes upon the lands the Republican party had given them under the provisions of the homestead and pre-emption laws. The failure of each succeeding crop reduced them financially lower and lower, until in their desperation they were willing to believe that the government, and especially the republican party, was not responsible for their misfortunes.

Scheming politicians took advantage of the situation and the result was the calamity party. Reason was dethroned and fanaticism reigned supreme. With the year 1891 came good crops. Kansas alone released over $14,000,000 of mortgage indebtedness. Nebraska fell in line with nearly as much more. The farmers prospered. Reason returned, resulting in the gradual decline of the calamity howl. The present crop prospects for the Western States was never better, and with returning prosperity will return the old-time Republican majorities.

Reciprocity has made a market in Cuba for over a million barrels of American flour every year. In the year 1890 the value exported hams to Cuba was only $24,899. Under reciprocity, however, in November, 1891, these exports amounted to $40,854. The farmers of the West and Northwest can appreciate these facts, as wheat and pork are the principal things they have to sell.

Major McKinley of tariff law fame will be at Burlington at the big rally, Aug. 30.
